

ED Dentistry Course Regulations

Pathomorphology and Oral Pathology • 2026/2027

1. Course organisation

1. Classes are held in accordance with the published timetable. Students attend classes with the group in which they are enrolled. Any change of group must be agreed with the instructor in advance, taking account of any approved individual timetable.
2. The syllabuses and organisational rules are made available before classes begin and are discussed at the first meeting. Students must prepare for the specified topics and use the materials recommended by the instructor.

2. Attendance and make-up classes

1. Attendance at all classes, including lectures, is compulsory (§ 12(3)). The instructor records attendance, late arrivals and early departures.
2. Students must promptly inform the instructor, using their student.umw.edu.pl email account, of the reason for and expected duration of their absence. Supporting documentation must be submitted in accordance with § 12(4–7) of the Study Regulations.
3. Students are entitled to make up classes missed for an excused reason. As soon as the reason for the absence no longer applies, they must agree with the instructor on the format and date of the make-up work, which must enable them to achieve the same learning outcomes. This may take place during consultation hours.
4. The exemptions and provisions for excused absences under § 12(9–10), as well as entitlements relating to special needs and approved individual timetables, remain applicable. Unexcused absences are considered by the course coordinator in accordance with the Study Regulations.

3. Conduct and safety

1. Students must follow the instructor's directions, health and safety rules, and the rules applicable to the teaching rooms. They must not independently carry out procedures involving biological material, fixatives or sharp instruments.
2. Case materials are either fictional or contain no information that could identify a patient. Recording or photographing classes requires permission in accordance with § 12(12), taking account of approved accommodations.

4. Course completion and communication

1. Two tests are held in each semester. The syllabuses and the ED Dentistry Assessment Regulations specify the rules for passing the courses, resits and the examination, including the early oral examination.
2. Official correspondence is conducted via university email. Organisational changes are communicated to all affected groups. Students should raise any concerns with the instructor first and then with the course coordinator.
3. These regulations do not restrict any entitlements arising from the Study Regulations or individual decisions of the competent University authorities. They take effect following approval and publication before classes begin.
